The Aurora

The weekly newspaper of Labrador West

Vol 1. No. 27

PUBLISHED IN LABRADOR WEST, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1969

Price 10 cents.

HE'S BACK . . . old man winter that is, in all his glory! Winter arrived in Labrador West last Friday when a twelve-hour storm dumped over six inches of snow on Labrador City and Wabush areas. The photograph was taken on the next morning on the approach to Duley Lake Road. Very early winters is a price which we have to pay for living and working in the Canadian northland but most of us will agree that it's not too big a price — crisp, white snow and nose-nipping temperatures are better than uncertain, damp, drizzly weather which is the usual winter fare in more southerly, coastal parts of the province. All the same, despite the "Christmas card" beauty of this scene, there are some of us who are a little sombre lately with winter's appearance; it seems like only yesterday that we said 'good-bye' to snow and frost! (Aurora photo).

Inside this week's Aurora

WABUSH IN-DOOR TENNIS OPENS NEW SEASON

The Wabush In-door Tennis Club has opened for the 69 - 70 season and already most of the 30 available memberships have been bought up. Twenty - two members have paid their fees and the rest of the openings will be filled shortly. The membership is limited to 30 because of the lack of space and time. Wednesday is tennis day and the court is open from 9:00 a.m. until mid - night. Ladies and all beginners are welcome in the day - time while after 6 is usually reserved for the working class.

This year's executive consists of: John Miller, Club President; Kirt Spitznagel, Vice - President; Anne Mosley, Secretary; Dave Bohach, Treasurer.

ALL-STARS VS ST. MARY'S HUSKIES OCTOBER 17 - 18

The St. Mary's Huskies will be making another appearance in the area again this season. They are scheduled to play a two game series against our Labrador All - Stars at the Arena on October 17 and 18. The Labrador All - Stars presently without a coach, are being handled by Alex Snow of the Hockey Executive until a suitable boss is found. Practices are being held four times a week to rush the locals into shape to play the usually conditioned and rough St. Mary's squad. Fans in the area may get a chance to see Loel McDonald - former N.H.L. player - if he travels with the Huskies.

TEN PIN BOWLING-BIG SPORT IN WABUSH

Some 300 bowlers are splitting the pins on the Wabush Bowling Alleys this year. The alleys are handling eight leagues seven nights a week. Ayre's Leagues take to the lanes on Monday nights with it's six teams.

The Mixed League will get under way next week and will roll on Tuesday Nights. The Men's League of about 65 bowlers schedule their twelve teams on Wednesday nights. About 50 ladies roll in their league on Thursday nights. Wabush teachers League and Desourdy Construction League roll on Friday night. Both these leagues have 6 teams. Wabush Collegiate Teen League rolls on Saturday and on Sunday. The French Ladies League of six teams gather on the lanes. Ten pin bowling really gathers strength in this area. With this many bowlers on the lanes we should see some good scores this year.

SPORTS SHORTS

The Old "B" League Comets uniforms have been brought back from retirement and will serve a fourth entry in this year's Labrador City "B" League.

Ski Equipment Sales should be up 100% this season. Nancy (Greene) Raine really impressed kids in this area even though she only stayed a few hours.

Wabush Industrial Hockey League will be holding its Banquet & Presentation of Wards on Friday - October 17.

COLLISION VICTIM - A late model car driven by a resident of Labrador City, came to an abrupt halt when it collided with a hydro electric pole, as can be seen, the car ended up the loser. Electricity for some sections of the town was interrupted for several hours. The driver escaped without injury (Aurora Photo).

Inevitably, this year's crop of new stock issues slumped badly in the general market tumble. On average, they have declined 40% from their 1969 highs.

Many, however, have continued to hold well above their initial offering price. Unseasoned stocks are usually the most volatile market performers. In any market decline they tend to drop faster and further on far less volume than the seasoned stocks.

Another development caused by the slumping market; in the past several months newly offered stocks have found life much more difficult in initial trading. Gone are the days (1967-68) when almost any new issue would double as soon as it hit the over-the-counter market. "The new issue market which provided fast gains has been over for some time" says one dealer.

For these reasons, the number of new issues filed with the authorities has dropped to a trickle of one or two a week. Only two months ago 10-12 filings per week was common.

Any comparison with a "high," however, tends to exaggerate the amount of decline because many stocks have only traded in insignificant amounts at their high points. A big factor in the new-issue slump has been margin selling. Declining price have forced collateral values downwards, in some cases below the required 60%; and investors have been forced to put up extra collateral, or sell, as most appear to have been doing.

The real estate stocks have been one of the hardest hit groups. Their prices have been easing off for some time, with little acceptance for new issues.

DOOR LATCH REPAIR

When the latch on one of your doors refuses to snap into the opening in the strike plate, quite often you can solve this little problem very quickly and easily merely by filing the edge of the plate facing the door. Be careful to file only enough metal off to do the job, because if too much is filed away you'll have a loosely engaged door that might rattle. Of course, sometimes the plate is too far out of line to be corrected by filing - and in this case the only thing to do is to remove the screws from the plate and relocate it. - (Gene Von).

SMOOTHER HANGING

Sometimes when those newly pressed trousers or slacks are hung over a wire hanger, their appearance becomes spoiled by an unwanted crease. You can avoid this simply by cutting a mailing tube to the proper length of the wire hanger, slitting this along its full length, and then slipping it over the bottom wire of the hanger. You can also achieve the same results by rolling some newspaper around the wire and securing it with some cellophane tape. - (Gene Von).

Towards more efficient use of school facilities

Alberta could become Canada's first province to make year-round use of its schools. Under terms of a proposed new School Act, scheduled to go before the provincial legislature next spring, the Minister of Education would be empowered to authorize school boards to alter the length of the school day, school opening dates, and the number of operating days.

The ultimate goal of the proposed changes, it is understood, is a gradual conversion to a semester system to effectively increase school building use from a present 10 months of the year to a full 12. Envisioned is a system of three four-month semesters compressed into an eight month school year. This would be achieved by lengthening the school day and abolishing some individual school holidays, and such major breaks as the Christmas and Easter vacation periods.

This would enable boards to stagger school attendance in such a way as to make more efficient use of existing facilities and ease the press for new ones. The changes, disclosed by Education Minister Robert Clark in a draft of the new legislation, are in line with growing support among Alberta educators for universal use of semester systems. These were introduced in some of the province's schools on an experimental basis during the past four years. Clark apparently plans to move slowly however, hence the choice of a "permissive" form of legislation.

It is likely some schools will begin the transition from 10 month to 12 month school terms as early as the fall of 1970. Most likely candidates for breaking new ground are a half dozen Roman Catholic schools in Calgary, which pioneered the semester system while retaining the 10 month school year, and some Edmonton public schools. These schools had adopted the semester plan immediately after it proved successful in Calgary.

Absence of adverse rural reaction to Clark's plan indicates the 10 month school year, with its summer vacations, is no longer a factor in farm economies in the province. A provincial government spokesman says: "Until a decade or two ago, farmers would have resisted a change of this sort, as rural children were required to assist parents in taking care of the summer work load, which at one time was fairly substantial. However, mechanization and a change in land use patterns have largely converted July and August into a period of relative idleness on the farm. The rural population sees merit in a system under which more student labor could be available in spring and autumn, the most active periods in the agricultural year."

Teachers, too, appear to favor the proposed system, providing, of course, it does not increase their overall workload. One teaching profession spokesman says: "I think we'd go along with the plan, providing our teaching duties were confined to two-four month semesters; that our traditional two month summer vacation period was retained; and that we were allowed to use the additional 'free time' accruing under such a plan to prepare our programs, take courses designed to improve our teaching skills, and so on. Needless to say, we would expect to be compensated, by additional time off, for the extra teaching time required during the our active semesters and loss of free time resulting from the dropping of individual 'free days.' These we now enjoy as a result of holidays occurring during the regular school year."

Clark has chosen an ideal time to introduce his plan, as Alberta now has a favourable supply of teachers. Following a shortage in the late 1950s and early 1960s, there is now a surplus, believed to be large enough to permit boards, particularly in urban areas, to carry out an early conversion.

Some initial studies indicate full, province-wide implementation of Clark's plan could increase school use by as much as 30%, with only an insignificant increase in individual plant operating costs. The overall saving in land acquisition and school construction costs would amount to millions of dollars annually. The increase in operating costs would be largely offset by greater use of maintenance, and other investment, now largely "wasted" when schools are not in use.

LABWAB

We have just read page 12 of the current edition of Aurora. We have read it, thought about it, had a smoke and thought about it some more, underlined paragraphs of it, made notations about it, and finally drawn conclusions about it, in our devious T-Dor fashion. For the benefit of those who have not read this said page 12, or who have forgotten what it was all about, it is a page containing two articles. One piece, or article, concerns the settlement of Canada's northern single industry towns from a sociological viewpoint, and mentions the prospect of a massive five year study to be undertaken in 1971 by a learned group of scholars and others knowledgeable in northern social phenomena. The second piece on the page is a statement of policy and priority by a leading political aspirant in which he makes known his thoughts on Labrador regarding it's material needs and it's relationship to the political world which governs it. Boiled down to few words, condensed a la T-Dor, all this means is that for five years we are to be physco-analyzed by a bunch of intellectuals, and that the government (if the right man gets in) is going to spend dough on us and provide special incentives to keep us and our tax dollars here. Real cool man! We got it made, everythings gonna be squared right up to a round situation.

However, let's be serious about this because there are many dedicated people who are concerned about the north and the near north. As these people, intellectuals and politicians alike, poke around they may find answers to some observations and questions we list as follows: (a) Is it possible for a man to own land locally, for purposes of private endeavour in this democratic society of ours, if he is willing to sign away mineral rights? Or if it is possible, can it be made a simpler process? (2) We wonder if it would be easier to raise money for private enterprise in this locality by local sales of stock in such enterprise or by borrowing from banks and other financial institutions. (3) What are one's chances for private endeavour anyway, if he has not the political patronage of the powers that be? (4) When one listens and reads of the strides being made by big business and government in the Canadian North, does he feel that Labrador is being taken into consideration in the full context, or is this being left to the dictates of the Provincial Government and the efforts they should be expected to exert. (5) We wonder if the members of the Federal Transport Committee looked down as they left our town recently, and asked themselves if perchance we didn't have a bigger more important complaint than we ever mentioned (6) Has anyone stopped to consider what a local newspaper can do, are we showing an interest in what this one could do, and are we supporting this one, even to the extent of ten cents a week? (7) When one considers what a big deal the large cheques of late have been, is he remembering the keeping in mind what a rugged time some of the women around town had while he was away fishing and talking shop with the boys? (8) How many businesses serving the public here in Labwab, have shown marked improvements in service and price because competition has been allowed in? (We can think of only two.) (9) Do you honestly, sincerely, deep down, really think our Provincial Government actually cares and acts on what you as a Labrador West taxpayer thinks is one little iota of the attention you believe you deserve? (10) How important are white lines on highways, and should they be bothered with in these Northern towns? We wonder if this is the case locally. (11) Why doesn't someone take a standard grocery list, each item minutely described, containing say, thirty items of standard family fare and price it on a Thursday morning simultaneously in eleven Dominion Stores situated in Montreal, St. Hyacinth, London, Moncton, Sault Ste Marie, Halifax, Antigonish, St. John's, Corner Brook, Labrador City and Wabush. We wonder what the results would be. (12) Has anyone ever checked into what effect noise has on Eskimos and Indians when they are subjected to "civilization" for the first time? (13) According to a recent article we read, the hunting of a breed of pheasant in Alberta brings in 5 million dollars every year to that province's economy. What does fishing bring to Labrador, what could it bring in, and how much money could be brought into the communities of the Labrador coast if tourism got some advertising directed to it from our Provincial Department which goes under that name? (14) The Road. Is the need greater to let us drive out or conversely to let progress come in?

Some of the these questions and observations may appear a shade out of whack with our first paragraph, but if we are to be analyzed and taxed, and if settlement of the north and near north of this country is the coming trend, then these and other odd-ball observations must be considered. We hope they will be.

Yours,
T-Dor.

HERE' N' THERE

THE CREDIT CARD RUMBLE: The business of credit cards can be profitable and often troublesome. Take the case of $3.8 billion - assets American Express Company. It has about 3,000,000 green, purple and gold cards outstanding. An Am Ex card can pay for almost anything from an airplane to a zebra. As the green connotes, it is almost as good as cash.

But this asset breeds its own liabilities. The latest "cancellation bulletin" of the company lists over 34,000 cards which are out of order. It also lists "Ten Most Wanted" cards which indicate persons who charged thousands of dollars for new clothes or golf clubs but forgot to pay.

After eleven years in the card business, Am Ex has acquired a considerable knowledge of the habits of card holders and card catchers. Hence the company awards up to $1,250 for the capture of a bum card. The company also pays additional money "if the information you give us leads to the arrest and conviction of the person who used the card."

LIKELIHOOD BOOM A DELUSION: The likelihood of a boom in Labrador is a delusion, but it is hoped to create cities, the heart of the economy, in Newfoundland's island section if possible, the assistant deputy minister of community and social development said Sept. 16th, in St. John's. Speaking at the conference of the Community Planning Association of Canada, Andre Saumier said the provincial and federal governments find the prospects for large sale industrial development in Labrador "less interesting" than on the island.

NINE HOUR DAY: Anybody for a nine - hour day? The 70 year old manufacturer, Kyanize Paints Inc. of Everett, Mass., earlier this year scrapped the eight hour day in favor of a new production day, only 10 minutes under the nine hours.

The catch: the company's plant works four days weekly (Monday - Thursday) rather than five. The nine hour day begins at 7 a.m. and runs to 4:30 p.m., with no formal coffee breaks, a five minute wash period before the 30 minute lunch and another five minute wash period at the end of the day. The company keeps a skelton staff on Fridays to deal with emergency orders from customers.

The employees appear to like the schedule, with all the long weekends. Absenteeism has declined sharply. The company, which had a recruiting problem, now has more applicants than it needs. And the company reports that it is getting more production.

CAR AND HOME THE SAME: Here's another step toward making car and home the same. A Canadian developed console unit, about the size of a radio can be tucked underneath the dashboard and used for dispensing hot and cold water.

Delegates nominated

Nominations for delegates to represent Labrador West at the Leadership Convention in St. John's is off to a slow start on Saturday, but Sunday afternoon interest was evident by the number of voters from both towns who presented themselves for nomination.

The Action for Joey Committee came up with a full slate of thirty-four nominees. The John Crosbie Committee are also fielding a full slate. Interest is on the increase in the Leadership race, locally and on Wednesday and Thursday nights a large turnout of card carrying members is anticipated.

beverage concentrates, powered soups, even freeze-dried casserole meals. Owners can choose from a menu of 30 odd liquid refreshments and meals. The food is heated either electrically or by water from the vehicle's cooling system.

TRAINS 7,500 NFLD. ADULTS: The Department of Manpower & Immigration is spending close to $10 million in the training of about 7,500 Newfoundlanders under its occupational training for adults program during the current fiscal year.

About 1,800 persons have just started training at the 11 district vocational schools and at the training center at Stephenville, the College of Trades & Technology and the College of Fisheries in St. John's.

The department itself does not provide the training, but pays for training provided by provincial and municipal authorities and by private schools and industry.

Of the $10 million to be spent this year, about $5 million will cover the actual cost of training and the remaining money will provide allowances for many of those taking training.

These allowances are paid to augment loss of wages while the person is undergoing training. Amount of the allowances may range from $40 to $92 per week.

And off they go for another year, these NHL aspirants started off the Minor Hockey season on Saturday Morning, Mosquito, Pee-Wee, Midget and Bantam teams all showed up for a morning of practice and instruction. HO! for the Labrador by James Skelton

Dave MacRae, of the Isle of Skye, sixteen, a Boy Scout, and sole support of his widowed mother, is - despite the fact that he has no money to pay university fees - determined to be a doctor - a skilled surgeon like the late Sir Wilfred Grenfell, and like him practice medicine on the reef - infested, foggy, stormy Labrador coast.

Dave comes out to Newfoundland, and consults with his sister, Nurse Jean of the Grenfell Hospital, at St. Anthony, whose late husband had been the doctor on this 1,000 - mile dangerous shore, and gloried in the work - and died at it after only two years.

"Go, and God bless you!" had been Jean's advice. "But," she had added, "journey there first and see for yourself, before making up your mind."

So Dave and an Eskimo chum journeyed north. They journeyed by schooner and dog-team from Battle Harbour to the uttermost tip of Chidley. They lived in igloos, feasted on Polar Twelve members of a women's bridge club gathered, and all the women being on very friendly terms kissed one another in greeting. How many kisses were exchanged in this wholesale greeting?

ANSWER

66 kisses. The first woman kissed 11 other women, the second 10 others, the third 9 others, and so on down. Simply add 11, 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2, and 1.

bear and narwhal, fought the wolves, hunted the caribou and the "sea canaries" (white whale), got lost at sea, and Dave fought for his very life with a roaring, avenging giant bull "Hood" determined to get him.

All the while, Dave gets to know the Eskimos - the cheerfulest, friendliest people on earth - and among the cleverest.

David makes his decision. He tells the Tunit Chief - "Yes, I'll be back!"

And Dave, while on the caribou hunt beyond Nunaingoak ("no ending"), picks up a couple of mining claims that will pay all those university fees and pay his mother's debts and keep her comfortably for life.

DEATH IN DESOLATION By George Bellairs

One morning, a haystack is seen to be on fire at the desolate farm of Great Lands, and when the police go to investigate, they find the bodies of Harry Quill, the owner, and his wife, lying on the doorstep. He is dead and she is unconscious. Mrs. Quill, an invalid, had apparently burned the stack to give the alarm. She died in hospital later without recovering consciousness.

Chief inspector Littlejohn, and inspector Cromwell become involved in the murder case because they are already engaged on a nation wide investigation concerning the "Black Lot" - a gang of criminals raiding isolated farms. However, on the very night of Quill's death, the Black Lot are arrested in the North of Scotland.

Memorandum to air transport brief

TO: Federal Minister of Transport, House of Commons, Ottawa, Ontario.

FROM: Local Steelworkers' Committee, Labrador City and Wabush, Labrador City, Newfoundland.

RAIL

There is a charge for all personal freight conveyed by the railway to Labrador City. However, these rates give no insurance for goods nor protection of goods from damage or loss. As two carriers are involved the residents find it practically impossible to lodge complaints because there are several officials instead of one responsible manager or Company official.

On September 12, 1969, when the commission was discussing our brief, perishable food supplies (refrigerated meats) were unloaded at the freight yard and left in the rain awaiting collection.

Due to the present muddle as regards to carriers and carriers' responsibilities, we are in a hopeless position, that we may complain but not claim. We stress that this requires your urgent attention.

Transportation of private automobiles should be on the same day or as soon as possible because in our case we have no alternative means of transportation. We have no road.

The feasibility of joining the two railways, (Q.N.S. & L. and Cartier R.R.) a short link of some 35 miles, would allow a one way rail circuit. This would considerably increase the capacity of the railway for ore and domestic supplies and allow much faster scheduling of trains.

AIR TRANSPORT

To encourage competition and a much improved air service, the communities would welcome a service by Air Canada. The shortest, most expensive and most lucrative route in our area is Wabush/Sept Iles. We urge the commission to recommend that Air Canada be given immediate licence to operate a weekend excursion service on this route.

We are confident that your commission will do all in its power to satisfy our requests.

The Quill family is old and widespread, a closed - shop to all except its members, who know all its secrets and discuss them freely behind closed doors, but are silent about them in public. They are headed by Aunt Clara, a very formidable lady whom they all respect and greatly fear. Littlejohn finds himself face to face several times with Clara Quill and has several battles of wits with her and her crafty lawyers before he finally finds out who killed Harry Quill.

WONDERS OF BRITAIN
 Eric Newby & Diana Petry

A novel and portable illustrated guide to many hundreds of unusual, beautiful, and extraordinary places and things, some natural, some man-made, many of them little known, in England, Wales and Scotland, and on the islands around their coasts, with details of how to get to them. Stone circles, forts, cromlechs, mines, churches, aqueducts, follies, mazes, barns, whirlpools, canal and railway tunnels, waterfalls, grottoes, houses, caverns and castles are only a few of the wonders which are fully described in a lively and intelligent manner. The illustrations, some of them as unusual as the wonders they show, have been carefully selected to complement the text, and a series of maps specially drawn by John Hower indicate the whereabouts of the wonders described. The authors, the Observer's travel experts, have travelled exhaustively in search of wonders. Eric Newby, the Observer's Travel Editor, is the author of several books including the bestseller Slowly Down the Ganges.
