Speaking of Sports

FASTBALL-SOFTBALL: The following was deleted from last week's Speaking of Sports. Please accept our apology for what is now history. However here it is. "The Labrador City team finished 3rd in the Provincial Senior Softball Tournament held in St. John's last week. The team had a record of 3 wins and 3 losses. Tournament winner was St. John's with a 6-0 record and Placentia took second place winning 5 while dropping only 1. The local squad defeated Argentia, Goose Bay, and U.S.A.F. Goose Bay, while losing to St. John's, Placentia and St. John's, Commercial. According to reports Hong, Hounsell, and Matthews provided the power for our all stars, while Duke was the winning pitcher on two occasions. The men's team duplicate the efforts of the ladies by playing .500 ball. Good show fellas." The Senior Softball Finals started on Tuesday. In the last game of the regular schedule, the Spartan's defeated the Braves 11-10. The Pee-Wees also concluded their regular schedule on Sunday and the finals began the following day. There are six teams in this league. (2) sponsored by the Royal Canadian Legion Branch No. 47. (1) Ashuanipi Social Club Ltd. (1) O'Brien Hall. (1) Hussey Engineering Ltd. (1) City Motors Ltd. We hope to have results of the opening play-off games next week.

TENNIS: The Cariboo Tennis Club of Labrador City will be holding its end of the season Tournament commencing 22 August. Congratulations will be held in the following events: 1. Men's Singles. 2. Ladies' Singles. 3. Men's Doubles. 4. Ladies' Doubles. 5. Mixed Doubles. 6. Senior Men's Singles (over 45 yrs.). 7. Novice Ladies' Singles (up to 2 yrs experience). The Club Executive are hopeful that all members will participate. In the doubles events partners will be drawn on an equitable basis and this should prove most interesting. An entry fee of $2.00 will cover all events.

The Tamarack Golf Club held its annual Invitational tournament Saturday and Sunday, August 8 and 9. The weather was the best the area has ever had for this tournament. 111 golfers took part in the tournament. Entries were from St. John's, Sept Iles, Montreal, Corner Brook, and Churchill Falls. The winners were as follows: in the men's division, Class A: Gross 1-B. Smith, 147; Gross 2 - M. Brennan, 149; Gross 3 - R. Ducheneau, 153; Gross 4 - L. O'Connor, 155. Class B: Gross 1 - T. Donnelly, 160; Gross 2 - G. Donahue, 164; Gross 3 - B. McCullogh, 164; Gross 4 - C. Blandford, 166. Class C: Gross 1 - J. Tibbs, 181; Gross 2 - J. Bartlett, 182; Gross 3 - B. Chick, 182; Gross 4 - B. Myers, 183. The ladies' division results were: Gross 1 - M. Mayberry, 92; Gross 2 - M. Roberts, 92; Gross 3 - H. Beauregard, 95; Gross 4 - P. Brennan, 104. The tie between the two top ladies was broken in a sudden death play-off. In men's division, Class A: Net 1 - R. Petten, 130; Net 2 - J. Thomson, 136. Class B: Net 1 - R. Watson, 125, Net 2 - B. Alexander, 128; Class C: Net 1 - F. Henley, 124; Net 2 - C. Cauthier, 132. In the ladies' division: Net 1 - P. Leonfelner, 71; Net 2 - M. Morin, 75; Net 3 - F. Spitznagel, 80; Net 4 - A. Chick, 81. Special prizes went to M. Caines, W. Menard, and R. Casmey, with the 'Most Honest Golfer' prize going to Mr. K. Anderson. The ladies' 'Most Honest Golfer' prize went to B. Corbeil. Tamarack members and executive would like to thank all the firms that donated prizes to the tournament. To the out of town participants, many thanks for coming. We hope you all come back again.

Editorially speaking

INFLATION: We certainly thought it unfair of Prime Minister Trudeau, during a trip to British Columbia, to blame labor unions and seemingly labor leaders alone for Canadian inflation. In our view it was the Federal Government by its own actions during 1965-66 that started the present spiraling inflation. Admittedly some of its employees were grossly underpaid; but granting 30% across the board wage increases was not the answer. Periodic adjustments over three or four years would have been more helpful to the workers.

Recently the government has been requesting a guideline of 6% on wage increases. But is this realistic when the cost of living is increasing at almost the same rate. Last week we came across a release from "Business Week" magazine which stated the cost of living in Labrador City had increased 28% in the past ten years. How this figure was derived, we are, at the moment, unable to state. However we have written for further information. Our guess is that of the 28% (if this is a realistic figure), the cost of living here, rose 20% in the past four years. This would be approximately the same rate as the rest of Canada, and wages in most cases seem to have risen accordingly.

But what of our politicians? The Federal Government recently raised pensions, to members who qualify, by 40-45%, but even this whopping increase does not put them in the same league as the Provincial Legislators of Newfoundland and Labrador who have raised their sessional indemnity (pay) by 53.8% since 1966. So it seems another case of "do as I say not as I do."

Yes Mr. P.M., we have inflation in Canada and you and your government are the only force that can do something about it. Your attempt to halt inflation by increasing unemployment was a ruthless, criminal unwarranted, failure. Aurora feels inflation controls begin at home and the Federal Government is Canada's largest business. We look to you for guidance and suggesting the payment of $100.00 a week for not working, is not in our opinion a step in the right direction.

Our suggestion: With your power of controls, bring unemployment down to 2-3% of the work force. You will make Canada a better place for us all.

On the local scene

Saw by a recent copy of the Gazette the population of Sept Iles and Port Cartier was 7,200. There must have been a mass exodus over recent months. According to figures I saw last winter the figure was closer to 27,200 people. In the same article it was reported Premier Bourassa would announce iron ore expansion plans, during his visit to Sept Iles on Sept. 4. Both Mount Wright and Labrador City were mentioned.

We don't want to labor the point of local radio service, but the signing off the air at 11:13 p.m., one night last week, was really unnecessary. Haven't received a Radio schedule as yet but Aurora feels a great many improvements are required to bring it up to reasonable remote service. While we are on the subject: The following is for the information of Happy Valley - St. John's, announcers. "CBC Boosts Quebec English Relays. Seven low power relay transmitters operated by the CBC in remote Quebec communities have started carrying radio programs in English fed to them from Station CBM, Montreal, instead of through the corporation's Maritimes network. They are in Port Cartier, Seven Islands, Gagnon, Baie Comeau, Gaspé, Murdochville and Schefferville. There are now 15 English language relay stations in the province fed from Montreal." The message: Schefferville is no longer on this network.

Last month we mentioned the overloading of haulage trucks speeding thru Lab. City. Notice recently the vehicles no longer overload, but double-load; and of late parking fully loaded, at lunch time, while high winds blow dirt about the town. Action on this matter is long overdue.

Here 'n' There

INTEREST ON OVERDUE PHONE BILLS: New Brunswick Telephone Co. has been authorized to charge interest on overdue telephone bills. The N.B. Board of Public Utilities gave the company authority to impose a surcharge of 50 cents or an interest charge of 1.5% a month, amounting to $19.56 a year, whichever is greater. The company said it has 40,000 overdue bills each month, with the total amount owing varying between $800,000 and $950,000. To carry this, it has been costing the company between $160,000 and $18,000 a year.

DON'T CUT THAT GOLF BALL: A child who finds a beat-up old golf ball may be seized by a powerful temptation to find out what's inside. It happens that what's often in there is a liquid core, the composition of the liquid being generally a trade secret and varying from brand to brand. Common ingredients are sulfuric acid, barium sulfate, zinc sulfide, silicone, gelatin and corn syrup. Whatever its composition, however, the liquid core is invariably confined under considerable pressure. Thus, a number of cases have been recorded in medical literature of curious kids who cut into golf balls and were rewarded by a painful shot in the eye with what the case reports tend to describe as "white, tenacious material." Authorities know of no case in which the eyesight was lost or even seriously impaired by such an accident. Still, a number of cases have required surgery to remove the stuff from in and around the eyes, and less serious cases have usually involved severe irritation. So, if you suspect your child might want to know what's inside a golf ball, tell him. Perhaps he'll believe you.

WANTED: SCHOOL DROPOUTS. Aged 17-22, with less than grade nine education. Must be unemployed, have no satisfactory work record, and no basic skills or attitudes necessary to be successful member of the labor force. Wanted by whom? The Bank of Montreal. The bank is launching a project "to assist socially, economically and educationally disadvantaged youth to qualify for employment." Participants will be given remedial education and on the job training. Why? "To meet some of the social and economic responsibilities of a concerned corporate citizen," a bank memo outlining the projects explains. Bank officials are reluctant to say any more about the program, which is now being discussed with Montreal social agencies, until they get some measure of response to it. Social workers are said to be excited about the idea.

PURGE ISLAND OF SIN: A Labor member of Parliament wants Britain's new Conservative government to do something about an island of sin in London's East End where he says teen-agers hold orgies and shoot up on heroin. Arthur Lewis told the House of Commons recently he had given Home Secretary Reginald Maudling information on the debauchery of girls and boys 14 to 17 years old. He said the kids were being introduced to hard drugs like heroin on the island and that a drugged, 14-year-old girl was raped by a crowd of youths. Police recently raided a party on a littered, weedy strip of marshland island and are bringing charges against three teen-age girls to subject them to institutional care. "These young people are using the island as a strutting ground," Lewis said. "There have been complaints of people taking and passing drugs and having sexual intercourse in public."

ORE CARS TO AUSTRALIA: National Steel Car Corp. Ltd., a subsidiary of Dominion Foundries & Steel Ltd. of Hamilton, has received a $10 million order for ore carrying railway cars from Hammersley Iron Pty of Melbourne, Australia. The cars will take about four and a half months to complete.

WAGES GAINS REMAIN HIGH: Labor contracts signed during the second quarter of 1970 awarded wage boosts of 8.5%, according to the Department of Labor. This was lower than the 9.4% averaged in the first quarter but higher than the 7.7% reported for the second quarter of 1969. The department says that the average increase for all the contracts in force during the year ended in June was 7.7%. This compares with 7.3% in the previous 12 months. Although wages were rising by 7.7% in the last year, prices have increased by 3.2%. That means that workers have increased their actual buying power by 4.5%. In the previous year, their buying power rose 2.0%. The department's survey covers nearly 20% of the Canadian labor force.

SEAWAY TONNAGE UP OVER 1969: Early season cargo predictions by St. Lawrence Seaway officials are panning out. For the season, to the end of May, total cargo tonnage along the Montreal-Lake Ontario section of the seaway increased 30.3% over the same period in 1969. The cumulative 1970 total cargo tonnage to date is 9.7 million tons an increase of 17% over the 1969 figure. Total cargo for May, 6,142,000 tons, was almost double the 3,535,000 tons carried in the previous month. Number of commercial vessels increased, from 359 in April to 734 in May, for a total of 1,093 year to date. Shipments of wheat, iron ore and iron pellets accounted for a large part of the increase in tonnage.

"CLEAN FIRE EXTINGUISHER": A cleaner fire extinguishing system has been introduced by a Wisconsin company. It is said to quickly snuff out fires without leaving any residue. The system is designed to protect valuable objects, records or delicate electronic equipment. Instead of smothering fires or cooling blazing fuels, it chemically interferes with the chain reaction causing the combustion. Because it does not work by displacing or diluting oxygen, the system can be used in office areas without fear of injuring people.

Scanning the Market

BY C. S. DEVINE

The market continues to "mark time" in the 705-735 range and it will probably be after Labor Day, at the earliest, before a definite trend is established. The market at the moment is in the midst of its "summer doldrums", with trading the lightest in years.

Read a very optimistic report from a large U.S. investment house, last week. Here is their opinion on the future of the U.S. economy. (The trends in U.S. business, will of course, have a marked effect in Canada). "The outlook for the economy is more promising than a lot of people think. The rate of inflation is finally about to slow, a major inventory correction has mostly run its course, and industrial production can now stage a gradual recovery following its lengthy, though moderate, decline since last July. A turn for the better, when it comes, will be a welcome antidote for the doomsday neurosis which is afflicting most investors. The decline in the stock market, the Penn Central's bankruptcy proceedings and growing talk about the nation's "liquidity crisis" are being widely taken as omens of hard times ahead.

But as we analyze the business trends, we find a convincing body of evidence that the overall situation is starting to improve. Here are the key factors involved:

A. The continuing high level of employment: The transition from a wartime to a peacetime economy, as President Nixon describes the current period, has caused 750,000 layoffs in military and defence areas over the past year. And because of the business slowdown, several hundred thousand others, largely in the durable goods industries, have also lost their jobs. Much of the recent run-up in the unemployment rate, however, is due to the fact that the nation's labor force (jobholders plus those looking for work) is now expanding at its fastest pace in over two decades. In the past year, annual growth of the labor force has shot up to nearly 2.5 million people, largely because those born during the baby bulge of the late 1940s have now reached early adulthood. Unfortunately, this stepped-up supply of potential workers is coinciding with the economic slowdown and the defence cutbacks, thus pushing up the unemployment rate. Despite the higher jobless rate (which has received all the headlines), well over a million more persons have been working this year than at any previous time in history.

B. The strong growth of personal income: With the employment level remaining high and wage and salary increases averaging nearly 8%, personal income has continued to advance briskly. In the first five months of the year, it was 7.7% higher than in the same period of 1969. The trend of after-tax income has been even stronger. Reflecting the 1 Jan. 1970 reduction in the surtax and higher social security benefits (which are not taxable), the annual rate of disposable income climbed from $647 billion in late 1969 to $660 billion in the first quarter.

C. The lag in consumer durable goods: The economy has been hurt because consumers have not been spending as much of this year's higher income as they normally would. Uncertain ties from a variety of causes, inflation, high interest rates, student riots, Indo-China, the stock market, have all discouraged families from normal borrowing and spending. As is usual during such periods, the brunt has fallen on the sales of durable goods. They have remained flat since early 1969, thus slowing the uptrend of total consumer spending. In recent months, the sales of new cars and household appliances the major components of consumer durable outlays, have been picking up. As family incomes continue to advance, demand for big-ticket items should move up from its current plateau.

D. Inventory correction mostly completed.

E. Industrial production rounding bottom.

F. Profit squeeze continuing.

G. Rate of inflation to slow: There is reason to believe, that the pace of inflation will gradually decelerate in the period ahead. It is still too early for investment losses, excess production capacity, the growing labor surplus, and the scarcity of capital, to have any visible effect on the widely reported Consumer Price Index. But already under way is an unmistakable slowdown in wholesale prices. Within the next couple of months, this slowdown at the wholesale level will work its way down into retail pricing. The Consumer Price Index should then begin to slacken from its persistent 6% uptrend. There are still no prospects of returning to the historic 2% pace of inflation any time soon. But now, at last, we are moving in the right direction.

Nominating conventions being held this month

The Progressive Conservative Party are holding four nominating conventions in August, the first one began on August 15. PC party leader Frank Moores says the four conventions have been planned for some time. He said they are being held this month because, the party fully expects that an election will be called this fall, and if it is then the PC's will be ready.

On the 15th the first convention was held in the district of Bonavista North, at Hare Bay. St. John's lawyer Robert Wells won the nomination.

The second nominating convention to be held will be in the district of Fortune Bay. Because of geographic problems there will be two separate meetings in this district. The first will be held on the 21st of August in Bay L'Argent and the second the following day in Belleoram. The only announced candidate for that nomination is the present MHA for the district H.R.V. Earle.

On the 25th of August the third nominating convention will be held. That will be in Baie Verte for the district of White Bay South. So far no one has publicly offered himself for the nomination.

The final convention for the month will be held on Bell Island on August 29. Three persons have said they will seek the right to represent the Progressive Conservative Party in the next election. They are: John Nolan the president of the local district association, Raymond Gendreau the chairman of the Bell Island development committee and Bernard Fitzpatrick.

To be eligible to take part in any nominating convention a person need only to be a registered voter of the district in which the convention is being held. No cards are required to attend or take part in any nominating meeting.

It had been planned to have a fifth convention during the month of August, that in Labrador West. However it was decided to postpone this convention because of the transient summer population in the district.

Mr. Moores said there will be five and perhaps six more nominating conventions in the month of September, and five each month after that until an election is called. If an election is called this fall then he said the machinery is available to hold nominating conventions in all the remaining districts quickly. Mr. Moores said the party is confident that these conventions will serve to get the people involved in the political process and it will provide the party with a high calibre of candidate for the next election.

BY CHARLES DEVINE

MILANO: In Milan, the museums look like railway stations and the railway station looks like a museum. Women must cover head and arms before entering its colossus of a cathedral, yet you can buy beer on its roof. Not all Milan's attractions are so contradictory. But they are there, architectural, gastronomic and artistic, and it's a pity that to many business people, the city is not much more than the place trade fairs go on all year round, while Rome, Florence, Naples and Venice get much more play on tourist itineraries.

It's true that Milan is a big trade centre. The grounds are just 10 minutes by taxi from downtown. It's a natural location in Italy because Milan is the country's biggest industrial and commercial centre. Plants in and around the city turn out steel, automobiles, typewriters, (this one I'm using at present) sewing machines, chemicals and textiles. Although with nearby Genoa and Turin, the area turns out 80% of Italy's manufactured goods. But the bustling, proud, efficient metropolis is not all industry and high finance.

In the hub of the city, for example, is its vast cathedral, the Duomo. It's a prime example of Gothic art and said to be Europe's third largest church (after St. Peter's in Rome and the cathedral in Seville.) The intricacy of its exterior design is dazzling. From a distance, it looks more lace than masonry. Then on the rooftops is a forest of spires, saints some 135 spires and 2,000 statues. Little wonder that the building began in 1385 and only ended late 1890's. By all means, climb or take an elevator to the roof. It gives a breathtaking view of the city and, on a clear day, you can see as far as the Alps. This is where you buy your beer.

The spacious square before the cathedral, Piazza del Duomo, is for people watching. Italians from Turin sometimes say with a touch of scorn that the Milanese "live in the streets." They certainly stroll by the hour in the busy plaza; dignified businessmen and their wives, mini- and midi-skirted girls and the young men who ogle them, young lovers, teenagers, touts and children.

Just off the square is the Galleria Vittorio Emanuele, a lofty cruciform layout of vaulted and glassed-ove arcades made up of boutiques and a sprinkling of bars and restaurants. Everything from silk ties to pronographic books and pictures can be brought here. At the intersection of the walkways is the renowned Biffi's restaurant. It's Milan's answer to the Cafe de la Paix in Paris or Rome's sidewalk cafes on the Via Veneto. Some people say they like it better because there's more going on.

Another five minutes' walk brings you to where, in the fall and winter, you can hear opera in its most famous setting, La Scala. Il Teatro alla Scalla (Theatre at the Stairs) which the Milanese proudly insist is the world's greatest opera house, dates back to 1779. Badly damaged during World War II but now superbly restored, its exterior is still so nondescript that one could easily pass by without recognizing this mecca of opera lovers. Its two-tone brick facade faces the busy square containing a flower-encircled statute of Leonardo de Vinci. The Renaissance artist spent 25 of his 67 years working in Milan. Still to be seen in his fresco of The Last Supper. It's in the refectory of the Church, Santa Maria della Grazie. Now slightly faded, it is nevertheless a splendid religious work of art. There is much more of the same. Milan has at least 14 major museums and art galleries. All look like railway stations, although their art treasures are said to rival those in Rome and Florence.

Milan's modern face is decked with slim, soaring skyscrapers and sleek, midtown apartment blocks. At the same time developers have left a few square yards for green courtyards, trees and flowers. So the city is not all asphalt and stone. The Taxi drivers here are an ingenious breed. For one thing, they squeeze four men and their luggage into one small cab and still have room to spare. Fares are relatively cheap, although usually each piece of luggage costs an extra 100 lire (about 15c). Drivers are permitted by law to charge this way but don't always insist upon it. The city has two airports, Malpensa for international flights, and Linate, used chiefly for domestic service. Make sure the driver understands which one you want. Otherwise, if you leap in and ask for "the airport", he'll head for the one that will rack up the bigger fare. And unless you are exceptionally lucky, your flight will be taking off elsewhere.

Who will pay $85 million for Telesat?

Now that Hughes has been awarded the contract to build Canada's domestic communications satellite, Telesat Canada Limited will suddenly be faced with the problem of paying for it. And under depressed market conditions, the company's original plans to issue at least some shares to the public cannot be pursued, investment dealers say.

Telesat's overall money requirements for the next two or three years to get the entire satellite system in operation seem to be about $85.0 million.

This is calculated as follows:

	$30.0	Million
Satellite Launch	6.5	"
Research & Development	10.0	"
Two Large 12-channel ground stations	10.0	"
Two Arctic two-channel-plus ground stations	3.0	"
Six Network TV receive-only ground stations	6.0	"
Twenty Five small, TV Receive-Only Ground Stations	2.5	"
Satellite monitor and control station	1.5	"
Working Capital	15.5	"
Total	85.0	"

The original plan was that the government, prime users and the public would contribute to the capitalization by taking equal equity positions. Government officials hinted the company's total equity would be $20-30 million, with direct borrowing providing the remainder of the necessary capital. Today, however, public equity financing appears to be out of the question. It is believed the investment-dealer syndicate made up of Wood Gundy, Securities Ltd., Pitfield, MacKay, Ross & Co., McLeod, Young, Weir & Co., and J.L. Levesque & L.G. Beaubien Ltd. - interested in underwriting Telesat's public financing - has made this clear to the company. That leaves several options:

(1) The federal government and the major users, the telephone companies, and the CBC, would decide to split the equity between them and not bother with a public issue. Neither like that idea. Communications Minister Eric Kierans argued last year that, with only one-third participation, the government could exercise the control it wanted, bring in industry experts it needed and, at the same time, lower its investment. He said the establishment of a Crown corporation would be an easy way out, reducing the pressure for efficiency.

(2) Callable debentures could be issued by the corporation to make up the public share of needed capital until the right moment appeared to make an equity issue, at which time it would be called. Such a debenture might be sold on the open market if the conditions were attractive enough or picked up by the government.

(3) A straight bond issue could be floated and maintained even after the future public equity issue. What still is not clear is just how profitable Telesat will be. Some investment experts believe Telesat will never have a sufficient return on investment to interest the public. The reasons: The Satellite introduces massive new capacities to Canada's Telecommunications system all at once. Demand, and therefore, revenue, may build up slowly. Satellite technology is advancing rapidly on several fronts and it is likely that the capital investment will become obsolete long before it wears out. One analyst complains that debt should not even be considered. "There's nothing you can secure," he says. He points to the U.S. Satellite company, Communications Satellite Corp., which is entirely equity financed. Even if the public had an equity share, it likely would be compromised. Both the government and the telecommunications companies seek to derive intangible benefits as well as profits from Telesat. The government seeks to fulfill its policy of providing communications for the North, and the telephone companies want to improve the flexibility of their system. To the extent that they direct Telesat policies toward realizing these goodwill goals, the private shareholder will suffer. A way out might be to give the public cumulative or participating preferred shares. The former would be unsatisfactory because it could be a drain on the company and would not allow the public to participate in the company's potential growth.

The decision on the company's financing will have to be made by cabinet. It is conceivable the company will wait until a satellite has been launched successfully before considering a public issue. And there's even a possibility there will never be a public issue.

Social and personal

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Garland Budgell who last week became the proud parents of a baby boy.

Best wishes go out to Mr. Bud Messervey who celebrated his birthday on Wednesday 19 Aug.

Congratulations to Mr. & Mrs. Jerry Hunt who were married on July 18 at Calvert, Nfld. Mrs. Hunt is the former Mary Condon of Calvert. The happy couple spent their honeymoon touring the eastern U.S. and Canada. They have now taken up residence at Wabush where the groom is employed with Wabush Mines.

Mr. & Mrs. Lew Rowe wish to announce the arrival of their first son (Derek) on Wednesday 12 August.

Mrs. Irene Williams of the Goulds, St. John's West is presently visiting her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Hart and granddaughter Cindy at Wabush. We wish them an enjoyable stay.

Other visitors during the week included Mr. and Mrs. James and son from Illinois, Mrs. Fletcher from Montreal and Craig Thompson from Florida. All were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Messervey.

The lighter side

WEDDED BLISS: "John, you and your wife have been happily married for almost twenty years. Tell me, what is the secret of your success?" "Well, my wife and I still dine out twice a week. We have candlelights, violins, good food, wine, and then sex later." "And you do this twice a week?"

"That's right. She goes Wednesday, and I go Friday."

ALL BALLED UP: A Martian spaceman arrived on Earth after his teammate, whom he found gazing intently at a mail-box and a fire alarm box. "The dumpy green fellow with the big mouth does not say a word," observed the teammate, "but I warn you not to fool around with the tall red character. He'll scream his head off!"

A GEM OF A DEAL: Two inmates were conversing in their well-padded cell.

"I've just decided to buy all the diamond and emerald mines in the world!"

The second considered this seriously for a few minutes, and then softly murmured, "Don't know as I care to sell."

MUD IN YOUR EYE: A worried mother went to see the doctor about her son.

"Doctor," she said, "my son makes mud pies and eats them".

The doctor replied, "There's nothing unusual about your son making mud pies, and there's nothing unusual about him eating them either."

"Well, I think it's unusual," the mother said, "and so does his wife."

CRUMBS: The married couple were consulting a marriage counsellor.

"What's your problem?" he asked.

"Everynight I find crumbs in her bed," the husband complained.

"That's an annoying habit," the counsellor agreed, "but hardly a reason for leaving her."

The wife shouted heatedly: "Make him stop referring to my friends as crumbs!"

FAST LIVER: The obviously nerve-shattered patient said to the psychiatrist, "I have a very depressing problem. I've got a son in Harvard and another son at Yale and I've bought them both new Cadillacs and I have a town house on Fifth Avenue and a summer home at East Hampton and a winter home at Palm Beach".

"But that sounds nice," the doctor said. "What's your problem?"

"My problem," the man said, "is that I only make $150 a week."

SHIPWRECKED: The sailor was shipwrecked on a desert island. He dug around in the sand and came across an ancient Alladin's lamp. Hopefully he rubbed it, and sure enough a Genie appeared and said, "Make a wish and it shall be granted."

"I wish for a woman," the sailor said eagerly.

The Genie drew up his shoulders, looked at the sailor in disdain, and said, "What do you think I am ... a pimp?"

CURED: Joe: "For months I thought I was a fox terrier. Finally I went to a psychiatrist, and he cured me."

Moe: "How do you feel now?"

Joe: "Great! Just feel my nose."

JUSTICE: Plaintiff: "Your honor, he had no business beating me up - I merely kissed the bride."

Defendant: "What he didn't say, your honor, was that it was two years after the wedding!"

WATER CARRIER

An old discarded automobile inner tube can be converted into a very handy emergency water carrier, which can be carried in your car and which will use up very little room in the storage compartment. All you have to do is cut the tube, as illustrated, then cut two oval handholes for carrying. This makes an especially handy "canteen" for fishing or camping trips.-(Gene Von)

Radio criticisms welcomed

Mr. Doug McKay
Box 569
Labrador City
Newfoundland & Labrador

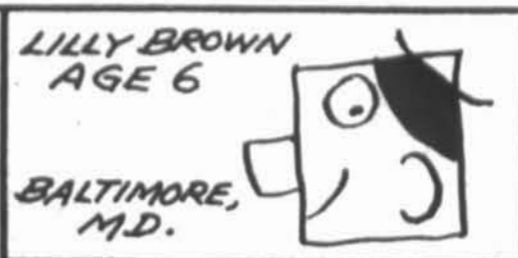

Dear Mr. McKay,
Thank you very much for your letter of August 6th to which I am replying on behalf of Mr. Morrow who is away at present.

The information regarding EPA flights is one of a number of items which we plan to include in our Regional broadcasts for the benefit of our Labrador listeners. It may take several weeks to shake down our new program plans, but we are very anxious to provide as complete and useful a service as possible to the people of Labrador now that the Labrador network has become part of the CBC Newfoundland Region.

If you or any of your friends in Labrador City have further comments or criticisms of the new radio service, we would be very happy to hear from you again.

Sincerely,
Ken Black
Head, Information Programming

KAISER JEEP: American Motors (Canada) Ltd. of Toronto has announced that Kaiser Jeep Corp., a subsidiary of American Motors Corp. of Detroit, has a $1.2 million contract to supply 400 jeeps to the Canadian military forces. Delivery will begin in November and be completed in December.

NEW BRUNSWICK HAS SURPLUS: New Brunswick's Finance Minister, L.G. DesBrisay has announced a $2.3 million surplus for the year ended 31 March 1970. This brings province's net debt to $301.5 million from $303.8 million. The surplus came as a surprise. Earlier forecasts estimated N.B. would increase debt by $5 to $7 million. The surplus lends weight to speculation in the province that Premier Louis Robichaud is getting set for an election. The last election was in October, 1967. The Progressive Conservative opposition has sharply criticized the government's long string of deficits. DesBrisay said the surplus resulted from an unexpected increase of $11 million in federal funds and $4 million in tax revenues.

U.K. MAY BAN JETLINERS: The government plans to ban commercial flights at supersonic speeds over Britain, a Government white paper said recently. The proposal is designed to prevent flights which would cause sonic booms to be heard on the ground, said the Government report, called The Protection of the Environment. The Minister of Local Government and Regional Planning, said that noise in Britain is getting worse. "It is perhaps the most persistently annoying form of pollution, and we are determined to get the levels down."

B.C. BOTTLES NEED DEPOSITS: Merchandisers of bottled drinks in British Columbia have been given until Jan. 1st 1971, to eliminate the non-returnable bottles. The provincial government recently modified legislation which requires manufacturers of soft drink to pay a minimum of 2 cents per bottle refund on empties.

The legislation controlling the disposal of sewerage, garbage and other wastes went into effect last month. From 1 July 1970, to 1 Jan. 197071, glass containers need not be refundable for cash. Instead, merchandisers may exchange the empty bottles for full containers, without charging the customer for the bottle.

BRITISH SEX SURVEY: British permissive society parades more sex than it practices, a psychologist said last week. More than half of the 400 unmarried girls questioned say they were virgins, "and apparently they intend to hold on to this status," the professor said. Even those girls admitting experience added notes to their questionnaires ("only with my fiance") or ("not promiscuously"). The girls were happier than the boys, too. Six of 10 of the girls said they were happy with their sex lives. Only 160 of the 400 men surveyed felt that way. The psychologist Dr. Eysenck described four distinct types shown in his survey: (1) The philanderer. Gets on well with the opposite sex; endorses the permissive society; changes sex partners frequently; indulges in more varied sex behavior; little interested in pornography. (2). The healthy puritan. Agrees with a Christian approach to fidelity; stresses virginity; likely to show better marital adjustment at 40; (3). The worrier. Low sexual satisfaction; high guilt feeling; difficulty making contact with members of the opposite sex; (4). The lady killer. Aggressive; impersonal; cruel; little love or kindness shown to victims; dissatisfied with sex life.

You are the detective

By A.C. GORDON

An excited voice over the phone reaches you. "This is Bob Adams. My partner, Tom Kern, has been shot ... he's dead. I'm at the Woodland Lodge."

You drive to the hunting lodge, situated in a remote section of the wooded country, and you are met in the otherwise deserted building by Bob Adams. He conducts you along one of the paths leading from the lodge, and after walking about 500 yards or so, Adams veers off the path to a spot about 25 feet from its edge. Under a tree lies the body of Tom Kern, a bullet hole in his right temple, the blood from it congealed over the side of his face. A long strip of blood-soaked gauze lies on the ground next to him.

"Must have been shot from ambush," you remark as you walk around the area. "The recent rain seems to have washed away all footprints around here, except those on the path. Three sets of foot prints are yours, the other set is Kern's. And here," you point to a spot in a nearby underbrush, "here is where the killer stood. There are powder marks on the leaves of this branch."

"Tom and I were alone at the lodge this weekend," says Adams. "He left the lodge early this morning, and about fifteen minutes or so later I heard a shot and a scream. I ran down this path and found him here bleeding terribly from this bullet wound. I hurried back to the lodge for the first-aid kit, returned, and started to bandage him ... but he died before I could finish. Then I returned to the lodge and phoned you."

"Why didn't you phone for a doctor on your first trip back to the lodge?" you query.

"I guess .... I didn't think .... I was in such a hurry to get back to Tom and see if I could do anything for him. I know of course that Tom wasn't a very popular fellow .... someone must have really hated him .... but what a terrible and cowardly way to get at him ... shooting a man from ambush!"

"I agree," you say. "And you can tell us more about it when we arrive at headquarters!"

Why do you suspect Bob Adams?"

SOLUTION

If, as Bob Adams told you, he had been at the lodge when Tom Adams was shot and had made two trips to the body and back, there would have been four sets of his footprints on the path. But you found only THREE sets.

Questions most often asked by consumers

By
CONSUMERS' ASSOCIATION OF CANADA

Here, for light, summer reading, are some questions and answers that seem to keep cropping up as consumers everywhere in Canada continue to communicate with us.

Q. Can an ordinary household teaspoon be used to dispense liquid medicine?

A. Household teaspoons and culinary measuring spoons frequently vary in volume. The most accurate method of ensuring a proper dose for liquid medication is the use of a calibrated glass or plastic medicine cup which has the various graduations marked on it. For purposes of drug labelling a teaspoon dose is considered to be equivalent to a volume of 5 cubic centimetres.

Q. How does the food value of white bread compare to that of whole wheat bread?

A. Most white bread sold in Canada is made from enriched flour containing added thiamine, riboflavin, niacin and iron in amounts specified by Food and Drug Regulations. Consequently the food value of white enriched bread compares favorably with that of whole wheat or cracked wheat and in fact may contain favorably with that of whole wheat or cracked wheat and in fact may contain more calcium, thiamine and riboflavin.

Q. Are all food additives laboratory chemicals?

A. Some food additives are derived from foods. For example, lecithin which may sometimes be used in processed foods as a preservative is derived from soybeans and corn.

Q. Why do the Food and Drug Regulations permit the addition of vitamin A to skim milk?

A. Skim milk is milk from which most of the milk fat has been removed. In removing the milk fat, vitamin A, which is fat soluble is also removed. To compensate for this loss Food and Drug Regulations permit the enrichment of skim milk with added vitamin A.

Q. What are hydrolyzed vegetable proteins as listed on the labels for some foods?

A. These substances are flavor enhancers in the form of partially broken down proteins. They may be obtained from such foods as wheat, rye, soya or corn.

Q. Food products are packaged in many types of containers including those made from wood, paper, glass, plastics and aluminum foil. Is one type of container safer than another?

A. Food packaging materials vary with the nature of the products they contain. Food and Drug Regulations specify that "No person shall sell any food in a package that may yield to its contents any substance that may be injurious to the health of a consumer of the food". Inspection and scientific analysis ensure that this regulation is being carried out.

Q. Are there calorie or sugar reduced foods and drinks available for diabetics or others who might require them now that cyclamates have been banned?

A. Soft drinks containing saccharin or a saccharin-sugar mixture are now available and a declaration of the contents appears on the label. Canned fruits suitable for use in carbohydrate or calorie restricted diets will soon be marketed.

From the national press

Keough announces

NOBODY'S LIFE IS PRIVATE: Excerpts from a speech delivered by W.V. Moore, President, IBM Canada Ltd., in Ottawa, recently: The East-West flow of Canadian business and government data, together with decreasing costs of communications over long distances (especially true when we start using satellites), will be much stronger than any North-South flow. Databanks will be developed on economic grounds for reason of frequent inquiry, and they will be developed by those who now own the data. The kind of information related to national sovereignty will generally not be on computers and if it is, so far as I'm concerned, the government can still say no, just as it can today. In fact, computer data can be controlled through modern security techniques far better than it is today under manual methods. For example, I hired a detective through a firm of lawyers, to find out about a certain individual. In two days, here's what his report contained:

1. A photograph of the subject.
2. An accurate description.
3. An accurate biography.
4. All of his associations and club memberships.
5. Information regarding criminal record (none).
6. Purchase price and photostats of mortgage information regarding his home.
7. Previous address and purchase and sale value of home.
8. All his previous addresses.
9. His credit rating at a number of unnamed department stores.
10. The fact that he drives a leased car, its license number.
11. On one of the two days the man was followed, unknown to him and his activities were documented in the report.
12. THAT MAN WAS ME.

I had anonymously arranged for the agency to be hired to find out about me. As you can see my life is not very private under present procedures, and neither is yours.

HIGH UNEMPLOYMENT - THE REASONS WHY:

The booming labor force leaves Canada vulnerable to any economic slowdown.

The rise in Canada's unemployment rate this year has come earlier and gone further than most economists expected. The government's own forecast predicted unemployment of 6.5%, but not until December when the economy was expected to be picking up. Instead, the rate climbed to 6.6% in June and the economy is at a standstill. Two unexpected events, account for some, but not all, of the increase:

1. In the last two months 104,000 married women have gone to work to supplement their family incomes. They were mostly between 34 and 54. All but 10,000 of them found jobs. But that many fewer openings were available for others.
2. The rash of strikes in British Columbia threw many people out of work in related industries, probably as many as 35,000 in June out of a total 87,000 unemployed in the province.

Apart from these special cases, the labor force is growing very quickly. But business is not; nor is employment. A group of Montreal economists has estimated that if real economic growth in Canada drops by three percentage points, say from 5% to 2%, unemployment will rise by 1.5 percentage points. In the U.S. the same change in growth would raise unemployment by only one percentage point. This year the rate of economic growth, aside from price changes, is not expected to be more than 2%. But the potential of the country is 5.5%.

The present growth rate is not enough to provide jobs for a population growing at almost twice the rate of other industrialized countries. Canada's current population growth is about 1.7% a year. But the population of working age has grown by 2.6% in the last year and the actual work force by 3.3%. In the early months of the current slowdown, the summer of 1969, economists were lulled into a false sense of security because a lot of people were withdrawing from the labor force. These were the people who could afford not to work. They might be students who wanted part time work; married women working to fill their spare time; elderly people who could retire early; or young people who decided to continue their education.

Last November, the situation changed. The labor force started to grow quickly, as it still is. The increases are most dramatic for:

Married Women	104,000
Single Women	20,000
Men 20-34	65,000
Teenagers	33,000
Other	52,000
Total	274,000

Economists are only guessing at the reasons for the sudden influx of married women. But they presume that many of these women found their husbands' incomes slashed: some of the men on strike or laid off, some were working reduced hours or going without overtime pay. In effect, when one man is laid off, two people, husband and wife, register for jobs at the local manpower office.

The manpower officials do not have many openings to offer. While the labor force has grown 3.3% in the last year, the number of new jobs has grown by 1.6%. And there are signs that the people who have found work are underemployed. For example, 128,000 people found work in the 12 months ended in June. But only 21,000 found full time jobs. The rest are working part time, for fewer than 34 hours a week.

The list of the unemployed covers nearly every walk of life. As would be expected, the slow growth regions have the highest rates but even Ontario has experienced a rise in unemployment. This is the picture:

	Last Year	This Year
Atlantic	6.1%	5.6%
Quebec	6.5%	7.8%
Ontario	3.9%	4.8%
Prairies	2.4%	4.1%
B.C.	4.1%	9.7%
Teenagers	14.6%	17.7%
Unskilled	12.7%	16.9%
Construction	11.4%	15.8%
Married Men	2.7%	3.6%
Office, Professional Services	1.9%	2.6%
Services	3.9%	4.6%
Craftsmen	5.9%	7.9%

Obviously, unemployment has penetrated the ranks of the most stable elements of the labor force, including highly skilled people with experience. There is little chance that conditions will improve before the end of the year, when winter will push unemployment even higher. The economy shows no signs of improving before then, and strikes could be even more costly this fall when railway and autoworkers begin their contract negotiations.
