Report on Labor

WINTER IN SEPTEMBER: Only two days after Finance Minister Benson admitted that this will be a "difficult" winter, the government labor force survey indicated that seasonally adjusted unemployment reached 6.9% in September. The report was undoubtedly a bitter surprise for the government because there were good reasons to expect a decline from the 6.7% in August. Strikes in British Columbia had ended in August. Thousands of teenagers would be going back to school and many seasonal jobs in agriculture would still be available.

However the forecasts were wrong. The withdrawal of 432,000 young people aged 14 to 24 was partly counterbalanced by an influx of 97,000 women over 25 years of age. Presumably these women had left the labor force while their children were on vacation. But once they did not need to worry about baby-sitters, they went back to work.

Unemployment in British Columbia dropped from 9.2% in August to 8.8% seasonally adjusted in September. But it is still far higher than the 6.2% recorded in April. The worrisome fact about all these figures is that September always has the lowest unemployment of the year in Canada. When those seasonally adjusted rates are applied to February, the month that unemployment is highest, the number of people affected nearly doubles. On a national basis, 6.9% unemployment in February amounts to 750,000 people. Some regional rates will be far higher than 6.9%.

The unemployment increases in September were most noticeable in the areas which have resisted the trend up to now. The seasonally adjusted rate for men over 25 suddenly increased from 5.9% to 6.3% and the Ontario rate climbed from 4.4% to 5.1%. Ontario was undoubtedly affected by the United Auto-Workers strike against General Motors Corp. which has caused layoffs by numerous supplying industries. The strike has continued into November, preventing any improvement in the employment situation there. The one favorable shift in September was a small increase in seasonally adjusted employment. But it was not large enough to offset declines in the two previous months.

In all, 398,000 people were unemployed in September, a decline from August but not as large a decline as usual. This figure is 119,000 higher than September 1969, and nearly half of the unemployed are over 25 years of age. Seasonally adjusted unemployment among young people is now 11.7%. The actual unemployment rate was 4.7% compared to 3.4% in September 1969. Federal officials were not too clear on how many jobs will be created by Mr. Benson's $60 million fund to alleviate the situation. But with estimates of up to 800,000 out of work by February, it will be a drop in the bucket compared to the number of people unemployed.

OVERTHROW & COLLECTIVE BARGAINING: The Overthrow Phenomenon, defined as the propensity of union members to reject settlements proposed by their leaders, is a clear and present danger to collective bargaining. The rate of such rejections now estimated at one in seven, shows no signs of abating. It has affected all types of industries in Canada and the U.S. and has taken on some new features, including votes by members for acceptance after the union leaders prescribe rejection. Perhaps the most disturbing thing is the fact that many of the rejections have featured voting margins exceeding 2-1.

Many reasons for the overthrow phenomenon have been put forward. These include the increased complexity of bargaining issues, the increased communicative gap between union leadership and constituents, and the more rebellious nature of today's workers. These reasons for the overthrow phenomenon are oversimplified and generally not true. Rather the evidence points to a desire for participation as the single most important reason. In general, the solutions proposed to deal with the phenomenon are structural in nature. Some advocate changes in rules so that membership ratification is not essential to the validity of a labor contract. Such solution ignore two facts. First, most parties to collective agreements, including management representatives, union leaders and union members, favor the retention of ratification votes. Second, the elimination of ratification votes carries no guarantee of a peaceful settlement. The members might still strike!

There is no solution to the problem. Some structural moves can be made to alleviate it. For example, managers should not change their last offer following rank and file rejection. To do so invites self-generation of the practice. Unions, on the other hand, should equate strike action with rejection of contract terms. Many unions have procedures calling for separate

Editorially speaking

In this column last week we wrote of a recent political poll taken, Province-wide in which the Liberal Party under Premier Smallwood was projected to win only 13 seats (in the 42 seat Assembly) if an election were called at present. The same day, Aurora was being published, a St. John's daily released a report which seemed diametrically opposite to ours. However it was the same poll but the findings were read differently. The one important thing remained the same. The Provincial Liberals under Joe Smallwood would lose to the Provincial P.C.'s under Frank Moores. One new and very interesting development brought forward by the poll was, the Liberals led by Don Jamieson (The Federal Minister of Transport), would defeat the Conservatives, with the latter winning but 15 seats. The third point; the question asked of people stating they would vote Liberal. Who would you like to see leading your party in the next Provincial election? The answers! (1) Don Jamieson (2) Andrew Crosbie. (3) Ed Roberts. (4) John Nolan. (5) Joe Smallwood. The poll did not attempt to rate the P.C.'s chances against the second, third, or fourth choices of the Liberals, as they would not be serious contenders for leadership, if an election was held this year.

At the moment 9 Nov. is the big date! If no election call by then, we will be living in the last days of Smallwood rule. The rank and file of the party will not support a 70 year old leader in 1971. Recent elections in the Maritimes have left Gerald Regan, at 43 the eldest Premier in the three Maritime Provinces. The election of Mr. Moores or Messers Crosbie, Roberts, or Nolan, would bring Newfoundland in line, age wise, with the other four provinces of Eastern Canada.

We believe changes and complete, wide sweeping changes in the whole Provincial political set-up are in the making. We noticed Premier Regan in announcing his new cabinet had selected nine ministers to assist him govern his Province Nova Scotia, of over 700,000 people. (In Newfoundland we have 18 portfolios for a Province whose population is slightly in excess of 500,000.)

We were very impressed by the statement given by Premier Robichaud following his defeat in New Brunswick. The main theme being, ten years was long enough for one party, with the same leader to run a Province. He stated that with rapid changes taking place today, it might be a good idea to have a law on our statute books which would limit to three terms or ten years, the political life of any Provincial Premier.

So in our opinion, come what may, regarding the forthcoming election in this Province, I feel we are seeing the end of an era. Twenty-one years of leadership, by the one person, we will never see again.

STEEL DEMAND TO RISE: Steelmakers in the United States are beginning to warn that a combination of forces currently developing will send steel demand soaring next year. These include hedge buying in anticipation of a steel strike after 31 July 1971 and increased demand when the strike ends against General Motors Corp.

Another factor is hedge buying in anticipation of price increases next spring when one-year price guarantees expire. Against this background, industry sources say, mills are operating at 65% capacity because of the current slow demand and the high costs that make it uneconomic for them to build up their own stockpiles of semi-finished steel sufficient to meet the expected increased demand.

CREDITORS SEIZE BUILDER'S ASSETS: Lincoln Construction Co., Ltd. of Grand Falls & St. John's, Nfld., one of the province's largest building firms, has ceased operations on six major highway projects and laid off its 250 employees. Chester Penney, president said late last month, secured creditors have seized virtually all the company's assets as compensation for outstanding debts. Lincoln had been awarded six contracts with a total value of $3-million and had completed about $1-million worth of work. Highways Minister Harold Starkes said the Newfoundland Government is protected against losses by holdbacks and tender bonds.

THE GREAT ROAD: Mr. M.W. Donnelly, president of the Canadian Trucking Association, told the Atlantic Provinces Trucking Association last month that what Canada needs is a great new trans-Canada highway. The second trans-Canada route, he said, would be a four-lane limited access highway, and the federal and provincial governments should now be setting up the necessary machinery so that work could begin within five years and be completed by 1985. The cost would be enormous. But Mr. Donnelly believes that a new coast-to-coast route would pay for itself by paving the way to a redistribution of population and economic growth, away from the congested cities and toward the less developed regions. Experience also shows that limited access freeways dramatically reduce accident rates.

QUEBEC-TELEPHONE: Quebec-Telephone of Rimouski reports profits for the nine months ended 30 Sept. was $2,428,277, compared with $2,099,773 for the corresponding period the previous year. Profit per common share was $1.07 compared with 88 cents. Operating revenues increased to $20,966,801 from $18,902,922.

The company says the results are in line with expectations that 1970 as a whole would be a good year. A spokesman said results for the third quarter showed an unusual rise in comparison with the corresponding 1969 quarter when revenues were affected by strikes in the mining and construction industries.

NAME CHANGE: Bikini Road has been renamed Helen Drive, in Durban, South Africa, in honor of former council member Helen Gibling, who led a campaign to ban bikinis from local beaches. Officials said some residents felt it an indignity to live on a street with such a name.

LUNDRIGANS: Lundrigans Ltd. of Corner Brook, Nfld., has bought a magnesium plant at Aquathana, Nfld., from Sea Mining Corp. Ltd. The Newfoundland government will guarantee a $1 million loan for Lundrigans to expand the plant. Expansion is planned to meet a $10 million contract signed earlier this year with the Cohart refractories division of Corning Glass Works of Corning, N.Y. The plant, built in 1968, produces magnesium oxide and magnesium hydroxide from sea water. Magnesium oxide is used as a coating material for steel and glass furnaces, and magnesium hydroxide is used in the pulp and paper industry.

MAIN CONTRACT FOR TELESAT SIGNED: Telesat Canada and Hughes Aircraft Co. last month formally signed a contract for the Anik satellite, with a price tag of $31 million: Anik will actually consist of a series of three satellites, the first to be delivered in October 1972 and the remaining two at four month intervals after that. Each satellite will have 12 channels, of which 10 will be available for commercial use by telecommunications common carriers and the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. Only two of the satellites will be launched; the third will be held in reserve on the ground. Northern Electric Co. Ltd. and Spar Aerospace Products Ltd. have also signed agreements with Hughes covering their sub-contract work on Anik and future Hughes satellites elsewhere. The two companies will provide slightly more than 20% of Anik's content, and similar work for other satellites.

Telesat's next move is to call for proposals on contracts to build the earth stations for the satellite systems. Telesat has not yet announced its plans for financing the company. Shares were to have been split equally between the government, the carriers and the public but this arrangement now looks doubtful.

FINAL AGREEMENT SIGNED: An agreement binding five Japanese steel companies to buy 75 million long tons of iron ore from a Canadian mine over a 15-year period was signed in Tokyo on 30 Oct. 1970. The pact will make Canada one of the leading suppliers of ore to Japan's rapidly expanding steel industry. It also may set the stage for a $38 million loan to help develop the Carol Lake mines near Labrador City. The agreement was signed by J.N. Purse, executive Vice-president of the Hanna Mining Co. of the United States. Iron Ore Co. of Canada, in which Hanna is a major shareholder, operates the Carol Lake mine from which Japan will obtain the ore.

The Japanese participants are Kawasaki Steel Corp., Nippon Steel, Sumitomo Metals Industry, Nippon Kokkan, and Kobe Steel. Japan will purchase the ore for $7.60 a long ton. Ore deliveries will begin in 1973, and the price will be open for renegotiation every five years. This will mean the first contract covering 25,000,000 tons of ore will be worth $190 million.

Scout news

Last Month the Carol Scout group had another first. This was the participation of the members of the Carol Scout Group Drum and Bugle Band in the Presentation of colours to the Cadet Corp. The Presentation took place in the recreation centre in Wabush on Tuesday, October 20. Eighteen boys of the group played for the General Salute, marches and at the Presentation under the able leadership of Bob Hollett and according to reports did themselves well. The Carol Scout group congratulates them on a job well done in the furtherance of scouting in Labrador City and Wabush.

Thanks to our note in last week's news letter we wish to welcome the group master, Allain Blackburn who speaks French and has been a cub and scout leader and who will be working with the third troop in the future. We will still be wanting in leaders so anyone who is interested should take a stroll to either of the school auditoriums on a Friday evening and see what goes on. We'll be looking out for you.....

BY CHARLES DEVINE

Because of the large number of people here holding Mutual Funds we felt the following would be of interest to many of our readers:

DISCLOSURE REQUIREMENTS INCREASED: The Ontario Securities Commission has increased disclosure requirements and set redemption procedures for mutual funds in a policy statement issued late last month.

Effective with all filings after November 15, 1970, the OSC will require a "clear statement of procedures to be followed and the material to be furnished by a shareholder or unit holder.....for redemption should be included," with the documents supplied to the investor. Except for delivery of liquid investments instead of money on redemption, the fund "must make payment in Canadian currency.....within seven days after receipt of the material specified." Redemption through the exchange of liquid investments instead of money is permitted with the written consent of the redeeming shareholder within 10 days of request for redemption. Liquid investments are defined as those meeting one or more of the following tests:

Stock exchange listing or public trading in a regular market place with regularly published price quotations.

Availability of facilities for ready disposal of the asset at an amount substantially equal to the valuation price used in determining net asset value. "An investment will not be considered to have satisfied this test merely because a company associated with the mutual fund has agreed to purchase the investment to produce liquidity."

Cash or its equivalent including foreign currency if it can be readily converted into Canadian funds.

The OSC says an investment "cannot be considered to be a liquid investment if the mutual fund which owns it is not in a position to sell it without restraint."

Redemption may be suspended by the mutual fund during any period when normal trading is suspended on any stock exchange on which securities are listed that represent 50% or more of the total value of the fund's assets, without allowing for liabilities. Redemption may also be suspended with the consent of the securities administration where the company's head office is in Canada. If the fund's head office is in the United States, the consent of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission is required for suspension of redemption.

The Ontario Securities also issued a policy statement requiring that all prospectuses must quote offering prices in Canadian dollars effective immediately. The commission says it became necessary to clarify its position respecting financial reporting in U.S. funds as a result of the unpegging of the Canadian dollar and the large number of U.S. securities and mutual funds trading in Canada. Also affected are Canadian companies reporting in U.S. funds. Prospectuses must state whether the use of U.S. funds in the material disclosed would make a significant difference in the disclosure and the exchange rate used in the calculations must be published. Where the rates makes a significant difference, the exchange rate must be published on the cover of the prospectus and all basic figures must have Canadian dollar equivalents at the current exchange rate. The commission also says "filings of material in a language other than English and/or any currency other than that of Canada or the United States is not considered to be either meaningful disclosure or compliance with the Securities Act."

If other languages or currencies are used, the company must file required material in the English language with financial information disclosed in Canadian dollar equivalents of the other currency.

The company must also file "a written undertaking to provide the English language copy of its financial information in the Canadian dollar equivalent to any shareholder resident in Ontario upon request."

HOSPITAL AUXILIARY

The October meeting of the Jackman Memorial Hospital Ladies' Auxiliary was held in the hospital cafeteria on October 26 and 33 ladies were present. Mrs. Wood chaired the meeting and welcomed both new and old members.

During the business session, reports of the various committees were heard and plans were finalized for the up and coming bazaar. Mrs. Saunders was the winner of the Home Auxiliary membership drive. It is hoped that the ladies will continue to recruit new members.

Speaking of Sports

Owing to lack of space several of last week's items were held over to this issue.

The "B" League opened its season on Friday past with the Indians dropping an 8-2 decision to Wabush. At this writing Rex Bridger, Joe Pollett, and Bill Day were the big three in the scoring race. The Wabush Industrial League should be starting their schedule very shortly.

Aurora wishes to join the Hockey League and the Recreation Commission in expressing deepest sympathy to the family of the late Les Walsh who died early on Friday past, soon after leaving the Arena.

Since the opening of the Labrador City Arena in 1966, Les was senior Hockey's, scorekeeper-statistician-announcer. His sudden passing came as a great shock to the whole sport's community.

SKIING: Earlier this week Nancy Greene Raine and her husband Al were visitors to our area; they introduced two movies and provided commentary during the showings of "Once In A Lifetime" and "The World of the World Cup", at the Royal Theatre. Proceeds went to the National Ski Team Fund. A 6 week dry-land training program for adults commenced last evening at 8:00 p.m. in the L.C. Collegiate Gym. There will be sessions every Wednesday at the Gym and each Sunday afternoon at 2:00 p.m. on the hill. If the response is favourable an additional evening in the Gym may be added. All adults interested in skiing, this winter, are urged to attend.

Corbeil 69, R. Caverley 68, A. Coish 67, and C. Desroschers 65, for a team total of 341. Seven Islands, D. Clark 69, Mr. Theriault 65, A. Bois 63, W. Gowams 59, and E. BOXING: In what many fight fan's felt was the finest boxing card ever presented in the area, the Hayward brothers were both victorious, (by decisions), in last Sunday's main events, at the Labrador City Arena. Approximately 1,200 spectators thoroughly enjoyed the seven event program.

Further information and pictures will appear in our next issue.

SKIING: Mr. Rene Beauchamp has joined the Smokey Mountain Ski Club for the 1970-71 Ski Season. He is well known by local ski enthusiasts because of his assistance last year, in preparation for the Canadian Alpine Championships here in Labrador. It is hoped that this year many more people will ski with Rene and benefit from the experience of this dynamic young man.

Rene was born in Montreal twenty-eight years ago. He learned to ski in the Laurentians where he raced and trained as a ski instructor. In 1961 he started his career as a professional ski instructor. For two years he instructed at Mt. Tremblant and from there moved to Mt. Orford as assistant ski school director under Mario Porderiezach. This was followed by two years in Chile. The first he was assistant coach to the Chilean Ski Team and during the second he was on the Course Preparation Committee of the World Ski Championship Organizers. Recently he has been working with the Canadian Ski Team and last year he was in charge of the Alpine Development for Eastern Canada.

Rene has taken several summer school courses in Physical Education. He is a member of the Canadian Ski Association coaching staff for their summer racing camp and is also on the executive of the Canadian Ski Coaches Federation.

Smokey Mountain's season has started even if the snow has not arrived. Currently Rene is holding gym classes for members of the A and B teams. Team C has been formed from the better skiers of last years Nancy Green League. Preparations are made to double the number of skiers in the Nancy Greene League. These are the skiers from 7 to 13 years of age. The 1970-71 season promises to be an active one for members of all ages and for every type of skater.

On the local scene

The ratio of medical doctors to the growing population of Labrador City-Wabush is now giving cause for concern, especially with an influx of construction workers expected shortly. According to a recent medical report the ideal ration is about 1250 people-one doctor. In areas such as ours with a small number of elderly people, the satisfactory number could go as high as 1750 per doctor and even 2,000 maybe tolerable. However in excess of that figure it was stated, it would be extremely difficult to provide satisfactory service.

We have at the moment four practising M.D.'s in the area, and the latest population estimate available is 11,500 with at least 500 construction workers due here before year end. Four doctors 12,000 residents (one per 3,000), far above the level considered satisfactory. It seems obvious Labrador City requires two additional doctors and their recruitment should not be delayed, considering the growing number of new families and the fact that many hundreds of construction workers will be employed here next year.

We hope to have some temperature figures next week but it seemed to us that last month was the most pleasant of the eleven October's we've resided in the district. On the 27th of October and again on the 30th Wabush airport reported the highest temperature in the Province. And finally a green Halloween.

It certainly has helped the various construction programs under way. I was really surprised at the rapidity of work on several apartments units in Labrador City and Wabush. As one resident remarked during the erection of the A.P.L. school, "they've done more there in six weeks than would be carried out on the Island in six months". However I think we should give the weather of the past four or five months a big assist.

In conversation with our local Magistrate we learned Dr. Georges Lebel of Labrador City has been appointed a Justice of the Peace. Dr. Lebel's primary duties will be in relation to the Narcotic & Drugs Act. Several other M.D.'s have been appointed in the larger areas of the Province. There has been a decrease in the number of violations against the Highway Traffic Act and it is hoped this will continue. Several adoptions were finalized last week and the Court is very pleased to see a large increase, of late, in the number of adoptions in our area.

Just about everybody is practicing economies these days and the Labrador Telephone Co. is no exception. However with the quality of the paper and the size of the print, in the latest telephone directory, they seem to be over-doing it.

Twenty-twenty vision and hands that are never soiled seem essential. I can visualize the condition of many of these books in 6 months time.

Understand last week's walkout at Iron Ore Co., of Canada was a pretty expensive proposition, all round. With loss of wages of about $50,000.00 and production sales in excess of $500,000.00

The names of the members of the conciliation board appointed to deal with a dispute between the United Steelworkers of America, Local 624 and Crawley and McCracken, Labrador City were announced recently by the Honourable W.J. Keough, Minister of Labour.

The conciliation board is comprised of Mr. Kevin Barry, Q.C. chairman, Mr. Francis O'Dea, L.L.B., nominated by the Union and Mr. William E. Wells, L.L.B., nominated by the Company.

The minister appointed the conciliation board to assist in settling the differences which have arisen between the parties in their attempt to renew their collective agreement.

The lighter side

REMEMBER: It was a dimly-lit hotel room, and finally the girl murmured, "Am I the first woman you ever did this with?"

Man: "Could be. Were you under the boardwalk at Atlantic City at one a.m. ten years ago?"

NO DONATION: The young man was one of the volunteers who had agreed to help raise money for the town's community fund that would help the poor, the blind, the old and the suffering. One of those on his list was the richest man in town — a crabby, old, tight-fisted millionaire. The young man visited him and made his pitch, telling the old man how much good a contribution would do, and how the old man would never even notice it because of all the money he had. "I see you've checked into my assets, young man," the millionaire rumbled, "But what you don't know is that I've an aged mother who has been hospitalized for twenty years. I have a daughter who has three children. My son needs constant psychiatric care. My brother is under indictment for non-payment of income taxes. And my sister is a poor cripple who cannot earn her own living. I think you will agree, young man, that charity begins at home".

"I'm sorry, sir," the young man said, much abashed. "I had no idea you were saddled with so many debts."

"I'm not," the old man said, "But why should I give to strangers when I won't even help my own relatives?"

TIT FOR TAT: It was obviously a very expensive bar, so the customer was understandably surprised when he ordered a bottle of beer, and the bartender charged him only ten cents.

Encouraged by this, the customer ordered a steak sandwich with French fries. He was charged fifteen cents. The customer said to the bartender, "I don't understand it — how can you make any money selling at these prices?"

"Look buddy," the bartender said, "I don't own the place — I just work here. The boss is upstairs with my wife, and I'm doing the same thing to him down here!"

THE CHASE: The clergyman usually had a conference with couples planning to wed and one of the questions he asked was how long they had known each other.

"Nine times out of ten," says the minister, "the groom will answer, 'two or three years,' while the bride will say 'three or four years.' In other words, she had her eye on him and he had been a dead duck for a year before he knew anything about it."

VITAMINS: The farm lad took a neighbour's girl on his first date, and he didn't get home until 2:00 a.m. His mother questioned him as to where he had been, and the lad confessed that he had taken the young girl into the woods and they had misbehaved.

"You did wrong, son", his mother told him, "but because you told the truth, you can have some of these cookies I just baked." The next night the same thing happened: the boy had a date, didn't get home until the next morning, and confessed his sins. Once again his mother awarded him with a treat of cookies for his honesty. On the third night the lad returned, told his usual story, and his father started into the kitchen.

"Where are you going?" the mother asked.
"To fry up a mess of ham and eggs," the father said. "The kid can't keep this up on cookies!"

MESS: The troupe of showgirls went to Vietnam, put on their show for the troops and received an enthusiastic reception. The major asked, "Would you girls like to mess with the officers or the enlisted men?" "Don't matter," one said, "but we got to eat first."

THE WRITER: The little boy had bought his grandmother a Bible for a birthday present and wanted to write a suitable inscription on the flyleaf. He racked his brain until he suddenly remembered that his father had a book with an inscription of which he was very proud. So he decided to copy it. On her birthday, grandma opened her gift and was understandably startled to read the following: "To grandma, with the compliments of the author."

UNCOUTH: The head-waiter at the Ritz in Paris had to hire a number of part-time waiters to serve during a big private banquet. He was understandably nervous about whether these part-time employees would enhance the marvellous reputation of the Ritz. During the soup course, one of the young ladies at the banquet, wearing a lowcut gown, bent forward and one of her breasts escaped and fell into the soup. Immediately, one of the part-time waiters leaped forward and, using a napkin, pushed the breast back into the lady's gown. The head-waiter seized him and hissed. "You idiot! At the Ritz for such a job we use a warmed serving spoon!"

THE BROKER: An executive, trying to impress a client, flipped the intercom key and ordered his secretary: "Miss Primrose, get my broker on the phone." Came the pert response: "Which one, stock or pawn?"

votes on ratification and strike action. These procedures enable members to declare dissatisfaction but to disown responsibility. The key to the overthrow phenomenon seems to lie in one word - PARTICIPATION. Union members are less willing than ever before to accept recommendations from their leaders at face value. Often their rejection is simply a reflection of frustration by members, because they played no real part in formulation of the contract terms. Union members, like other members of our society, are increasingly desirous of participation, to help shape their own destinies. There are hundreds of ways unions and managements can secure greater participation. These might include small-group study sessions among members to put forth proposals for their leaders to consider.

In addition they might include the use of electronic innovations, such as closed-circuit television, so that anyone who wants can watch and react to actual negotiations as they are carried out. Unless there are opportunities for meaningful participation by union members in the bargaining process, the members can be expected to expand the overthrow phenomenon. The future of collective bargaining may lie in the balance.

Last week the International Air Transport Association marked its 25th birthday in Tehran, Iran, with some bad news for North American travellers. Prices for the average ticket to Europe are going up.

From Montreal the price to London will go up a maximum of $25.00. The standard off-season fare will rise from $426.00 to $442.00. In season, the regular economy fare goes up to $544.00 from $524.00. Excursion fares have been less seriously affected. In winter, a 29 to 45 day excursion will cost $264.00 instead of $252.00 and in summer, the price has gone up to $326.00 from $301.00. Some low cost fares such as the packages offered by travel agencies have been cancelled. British Overseas Airways Corp.'s much publicized "early bird" plan which would have dropped Montreal to London rate to less than $200.00 if they reserved early and paid in advance, was turned down by other airlines.

The cost of making aircraft engines produce less smoke will have to be passed along to the consumer, K. Hammarkkjold, director-general of the I.A.T.A. told last month's conference in Iran. "These added costs will eventually have to be reflected in air fares just as the addition of anti-pollution devices on automobiles are reflected in the price to the customer," he said. Air fares have actually declined by 8.7% over the past 10 years. Consumer prices generally went up approximately 35% in the same period.

Phony charter groups operating out of Montreal, Toronto and the eastern United States have become a major headache for the world's airlines, the conference was told. Some forty flights were cancelled in 1969, affecting about 5,100 passengers. Already this year, the figure has climbed to 5,400 passengers who were involved in flights which did not comply with IATA rules and had to be cancelled. Mr. Hammarkkjold accused some of his members of "systematically breaking both industry and government commercial regulations."

Industry sources indicate that the secretary-general referred to fake groups which are assembled by travel agents to take advantage of lower charter fares. Passengers pretend to be a member of a club or trade union in order to take a low cost trip. In reality, the passengers have no affinity other than the common wish to travel. "Some of them, if and when caught, are even covered up by their own authorities," he charged. The "unethical business practices" which Hammarkkjold outlined were the result of the national airlines "overstretching themselves," he said.

"The consumer is probably suffering more from this state of affairs than anyone else." Already there are hints of further rises in the future.

AURORA, LABRADOR, NOVEMBER 4, 1970 - 11

QUEBEC AIR CHRISTENS JETS: Early last month co-incidental with the inauguration of jet service to Schefferville, Quebecair has named its BAC-111 aircraft for regions of the province, on the theory they act as goodwill ambassadors. One has been christened "Le Royaume du Saguenay", the other "Le Saint-Laurent" in ceremonies performed earlier, at Bagotville and Seven Islands by Andy Lizotte, vice-president, marketing, of the carrier; attended by local mayors and other dignitaries.

Quebecair will operate one flight in each direction daily with the jet aircraft; the service was made possible by completion of the asphalt surface on the runway of the Schefferville Airport, hitherto only a gravel surface unserviceable for jet aircraft was available. Other services will continue to be operated by F-27 turbo-jet aircraft which are both smaller and slower than the BAC-111's.

RIVIERA IN THE CARIBBEAN: There's a new French Riviera in style today, but the sea that laps its beaches is the soft blue Caribbean. This is France in the West Indies, the islands of Martinique and Guadeloupe.

Until a few years ago tourism to these islands was limited. Cruise passengers came ashore to buy duty-free French perfumes, or perhaps to see a volcano called Soufriere or a Pompeii of the Western Hemisphere. Today hotels are rising above the clear blue waters, the islands' first casino has opened and Riviera-style marinas are being built. In addition to perfume, modern shops stock French crystal, china, silks, local arts and handicrafts. Within three years, more than 4,000 new rooms are planned for Martinique, Guadeloupe and French St. Martin. On Martinique the 600-capacity Club Mediterranee - at Buccaneers' Creek, Ste-Anne, one of the Caribbean's loveliest beaches, and the 154-room Hilton, on a bluff overlooking the sea a mile from Fort-de-France, opened last winter. On Guadeloupe, the biggest development has been the opening of the French Caribbean's first casino, an elegant room featuring American Roulette, blackjack, dice, baccarat, chemin-de-fer, and no slot machines.

Hotels are also steadily increasing the number of rooms available.

Guadeloupe is actually two islands, connected by a drawbridge. Its western half contains the capital, Basse-Terre, a neat town with white government buildings and flowery parks. Mt. Soufriere dominates the scene and high on its slopes is the Relais de la Grande Soufriere an elegant hostelry (and hotel school) reminiscent of the chateaux-hotel of mainland France. On the island's north-western tip is the successful and swinging Club Mediterranee.
