Psalm 23 (A Reflection)

"The Lord is my Sheppard, I shall not want."
"it can't happen to me"

"He maketh me to lie down in the green pastures . . ."
"but it was so quick, unexpected"

"Yea, though I walk through the valley of death; I shall fear no evil."
"it was only yesterday, we talked and laughed"

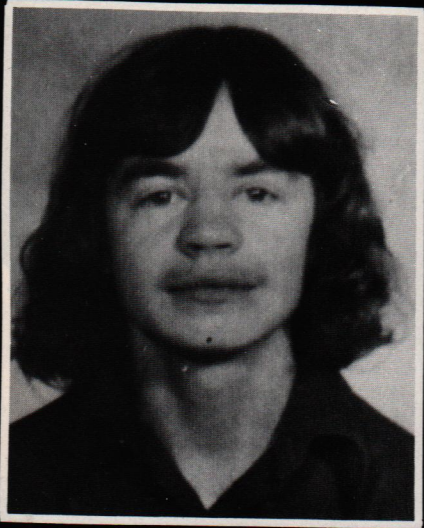

"For thou art with me; Thy Rod and Thy Staff comfort me."
"they were people who loved life as it was"

"Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life, and I will dwell in the house of the Lord."

"help me to remember the way they were"

EDITOR'S MESSAGE

Fellow Students:

This year, as every other year, it is the job of the editor to say a few words on behalf of the yearbook staff.

First of all, I would like to thank Mr. P. Collins who put us on the right track at the beginning. Thanks also to the countless people who gave us their co-operation and made this book possible, particularly Mr. C. Hurley, our photographer, who put in as much work (or more) as the rest of us.

I hope you get as much enjoyment from this book as we had in its compilation.

I am most appreciative of this opportunity, through your yearbook, to congratulate the students and staff of J. R. Smallwood Collegiate for their fine efforts during the past school year.

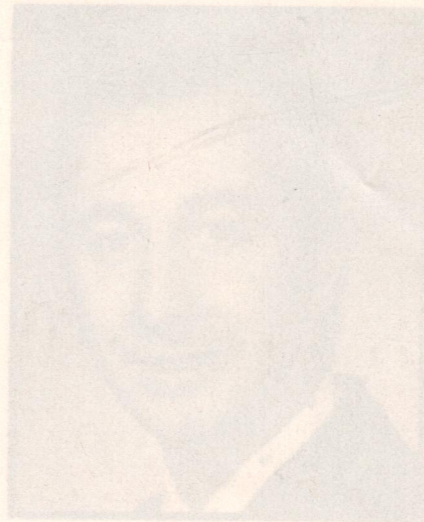

Congratulations to the graduates - may you strive to live up to the ideals inculcated at the school and endeavour to strengthen them as you progress through your chosen vocation.

To all of you, my very best wishes for the coming year.

This message is directed at our Grade XI graduating class, however, I am sure that it has relevance for pupils in our other grade levels.

We live in an age where recalls of faulty products are all too common. The usual recall is related to the automotive industry where faulty production leads to serious accidents. You may have heard of the recall of faulty televisions and dangerous electric kettles. Most of these items are sold with guarantees which are easily traced to the purchaser. Those of you viewing the CBC's "Marketplace" know that many dangerous products are sold and never recalled.

My point is WILL YOU BE RECALLED? I would like to think that the work of your teachers and principals has given you the exposure and opportunity to gain a strong educational base from our school system. I trust that any return or continuance of formal education on your part will be to improve your competence, rather than to make up what should have been done by you or us while you were in school.

As you leave school to ultimately seek employment, I sincerely hope that you approach your vocation with an attitude that will give no reason for the recall of your products.

Perhaps the most effective weapon in the battle of life is "believing in one's self". What you believe will depend very much upon what you are and what you become. From my experience, I have concluded that almost everyone can achieve whatever he thinks he can achieve. Great scholars are great scholars, great scientists are great scientists and great mechanics are great mechanics because they believe that much about themselves. If you believe you cannot, then you will not; but if you believe you can, then you will. Belief in one's self spells the difference between failure and success.

To you, as a graduate of J. R. Smallwood Collegiate in this age of high unemployment, and other economic ills, and to you, in your efforts to establish an identity, I feel that this "believing in yourself" is an essential ingredient in your philosophy. If present, this will erase many of the bumps on the road through life. For example, your energy will not be absorbed in wondering whether you can make it or whether you are good enough to try, but rather your determination will provide you that extra boost at the starting line.

To you, the graduates, the best of success in your lives ahead of you.

Principal, Elementary Section

On behalf of myself and the staff of the Elementary Section as well as that of the Wabush Junior School, I would like to offer sincere congratulations to the editor and staff for a job well done in completing the 1976-77 edition of our school's yearbook.

"Your education begins when what is called your education is over."
- Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes.

On behalf of all our teachers and staff, I would like to congratulate our 1977 Graduates for having successfully completed twelve years of formal education and the yearbook staff for another fine edition.

We thank you for the interest, co-operation and enthusiasm you have displayed over the years and express the sincerest hope that your interests and talents will bring you much success, personal fulfillment and happiness in the years ahead.

May we meet again.

Finally, may I, on behalf of the teachers of the primary and elementary grades, wish our 1977 graduates every success in their chosen careers and all their future endeavours.

On behalf of myself and the staff of the Elementary Section as well as that of the Wabush Junior School, I would like to offer sincere congratulations to the editor and staff for a job well done in completing the 1976 - 77 edition of our school's yearbook.

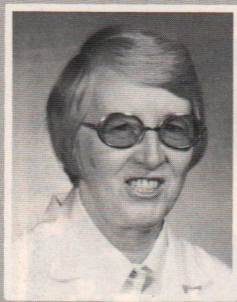

We must not forget that the primary and elementary school years are very important to the child. When a child begins his or her school career it is an event of major importance, for the parents as well as the child. These early years, commonly referred to as the "Formative Years", are the years wherein the child must be provided with a firm foundation on which to develop his or her future educational habits. This is the time to help these "little people" develop good physical, social and intellectual habits and to arouse in them a keen interest in learning.

I, as a member of the school administration, as well as the staff of the primary and elementary sections of our schools, will try our best and look forward to the parents working with us so that between the school and the home we can make the child's school life a happy and well-adjusted one.

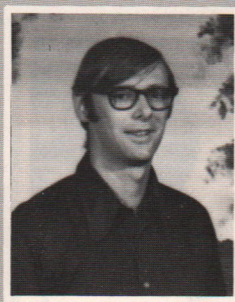

Finally, may I, on behalf of the teachers of the primary and elementary grades, wish our 1977 graduates every success in their chosen careers and all their future endeavours.
